Directions: Because we have an exam in a week, there’s not enough time to have a graded homework. However, we’re confident that you will benefit from working some problems on recently-introduced material that will be on the exam, whether or not we collect your answers. Thus, we offer this uncollected, ungraded homework. We recommend that you treat it as you would a regular homework: Write complete answers to all of the questions, do your own work, and show that work, when appropriate. Section leaders will entertain questions on these problems in section and at the exam review session next week.

Note: Do these! Do more than these! And do odd numbered exercises in all of the sections the exam covers. History tells me that students routinely ignore these practice homeworks because they aren’t graded. Don’t think about the homework not being graded; think about the fact that the exam that covers this same material will be graded.
